

Free Regional Trainings: Developing Partnerships within your School Community

The Oregon School-Based Health Care Network is excited to announce a series of FREE regional trainings to support schools and school-based health centers (SBHCs) in developing strong partnerships. Trainings will be led by Jessica Bogli, education consultant, and Maesie Speer, Network project coordinator.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

Schools with a certified SBHC or SBHC planning grant site are invited to attend with a diverse team of 3 – 5 members from throughout the school community. Possible team members include SBHC staff, principals/vice-principals, other school administrators, teachers, school counselors, school nurses, social workers or advocates, coaches, ESD staff, parents.

OBJECTIVES

By the end of the training, participants will:

- Understand the key intersections between SBHCs and schools and how we can support each other
- Learn and practice skills around developing meaningful partnerships and how these partnerships benefit you
- Learn of tools, policies, resources and grant monies available to help support the work you do
- Develop an action plan for future partnership activities
